To undertake research pertaining to the protection, restoration, health and wellbeing of the Waikato River.

The objectives of this project seek to:

Identify and collate material from archival documents and undertake interviews with Waikato-Tainui tribal members that bring together Waikato-Tainui knowledge's and practices pertaining to the protection, restoration, health and wellbeing of the Waikato River.

Develop resources that are educational in their focus from the material collated and interviews undertaken that reflect Waikato-Tainui knowledge's and practices pertaining to the protection, restoration, health and wellbeing of the Waikato River.

Work in collaboration with the University of Waikato to develop the appropriate context and platforms for the resources to be located on and disseminated by The Science Learning Hub website (www.sciencelearn.org.nz).

This project is funded by the Waikato River Authority (WRA 11-111)
